

GANES VALUE GROWTH FUND

The Ganes Value Growth Fund recorded a return of 2.18% for April and has achieved a one year return of 26.36%. During the month we initiated two new investment positions and sold two holdings, namely, Rebel Sport, which we mentioned in the March report, and The Reject Shop which had exceeded our valuation estimates. The Reject Shop has been held for more than 12 months and we exited with a return of 170% on our investment. During the month we also continued to add to our Domino's Pizza and Servcorp holdings. Both companies possess attractive growth prospects in their international operations that should begin to be realised over the next year or two and ultimately reflected in the share price for investors.

The continued strong run in the Australian sharemarket has certainly made it harder to find real bargains amongst the type of companies that meet our investing criteria – profitable, conservatively financed, well-managed companies with attractive growth prospects. However, with a concentrated portfolio of less than 40 stocks and low portfolio turnover, it is usually only necessary for us to find a handful of new investment ideas each year to provide a meaningful contribution to long-term portfolio performance. And given there are now nearly 1,800 companies listed on the Australian market we believe we can still find these investment opportunities.

At month end 81% of the Ganes Value Growth Fund assets were invested across 39 companies with the balance held in cash.

GANES VALUE GROWTH FUND

The Ganes Value Growth Fund provides investors with exposure to a unique portfolio of Australian listed companies that will provide growth and income to investors over the longer-term. It is their meticulous approach to studying companies while taking into account the macro-level drivers of Australian business that make Ganes such a capable investment firm.

Ganes investment methodology comprises both quantitative and qualitative analysis commonly called fundamental analysis. This research process ensures that financial ratios and measures are used to demonstrate that the company produces superior returns, while also making experienced judgements about the underlying strength of the business and the talent of its management team.

The team at Ganes often refer to the following quote as an insight into their investment strategy:

"If you are a prudent investor or sensible businessman, will you let Mr. Market's daily communication determine your view of a $1000 interest in the enterprise? Only in case you agree with him or want to trade with him. You may be happy to sell out to him when he quotes you a ridiculously high price, and equally happy to buy from him when his price is low. But the rest of the time you will be wiser to form your own ideas of the value of your holdings, based on full reports from the company about its operations and financial position." - (extract from The Intelligent Investor by legendary investor Ben Graham)

The Ganes Investment Philosophy distills down to paying a reasonable price for a growing quality business, and therefore is a process based on individual stock selection to generate superior returns. A 'typical' investment in the portfolio is a profitable, growing business with an easily understood business model that can be purchased at a price that will deliver, in the opinion of Ganes, a superior return over the medium to long term.

With an attractive investment opportunity identified, Ganes will allocate 1 to 2 percent of the fund's assets to an initial purchase, then over time build a larger stake in the business as comfort levels increase with the business and its management. Holdings will be added to, reduced, or sold entirely as changes in the underlying economics of the business, market pricing, or Ganes' assessed value of the company occurs.
