

GANES VALUE GROWTH FUND

The Fund recorded a return of -1.32% in December as Australian markets fell by 2.6% for the month. The one year return for the fund is 7.16% after all expenses have been paid.

It would appear that we are currently out of step with “what is hot” such as resource and mining services companies which has hurt our short-term performance. However, over the longer term (5 years +) stock returns and underlying business performance will show a high degree of correlation. Thus our primary task, as long-term investors, is to find companies that will grow their profits and earnings per share over the coming years such that the underlying performance of the businesses we own will influence the portfolio performance rather than short-term market sentiment.

The valuations being attached to many resource companies surprise us to say the least and in our view are unsustainable. We will not engage in short-term musical chair type of investing and as a result the short-term performance of the Fund may vary significantly from market returns in this type of environment.

What we can report is that the underlying performance of the businesses in the portfolio in 2007 was generally good with sound revenue and profit growth achieved by most companies. Flight Centre, Cabcharge and Saferoads all made outstanding progress within their respective businesses.

As we look ahead into 2008 we have no idea what return the market will bestow upon the Fund, what we do know is that we will spend our time working to build on our portfolio of well managed, growing businesses, and seeking to buy them at an attractive price that will see that work ultimately reflected in the company’s share price over the coming years.

GANES VALUE GROWTH FUND

The Ganes Value Growth Fund provides investors with exposure to a unique portfolio of Australian listed companies that will provide growth and income to investors over the longer-term. It is their meticulous approach to studying companies while taking into account the macro-level drivers of Australian business that make Ganes such a capable investment firm.

Ganes investment methodology comprises both quantitative and qualitative analysis commonly called fundamental analysis. This research process ensures that financial ratios and measures are used to demonstrate that the company produces superior returns, while also making experienced judgements about the underlying strength of the business and the talent of its management team.

The team at Ganes often refer to the following quote as an insight into their investment strategy:

"If you are a prudent investor or sensible businessman, will you let Mr. Market's daily communication determine your view of a $1000 interest in the enterprise? Only in case you agree with him or want to trade with him. You may be happy to sell out to him when he quotes you a ridiculously high price, and equally happy to buy from him when his price is low. But the rest of the time you will be wiser to form your own ideas of the value of your holdings, based on full reports from the company about its operations and financial position." - (extract from The Intelligent Investor by legendary investor Ben Graham)

The Ganes Investment Philosophy distills down to paying a reasonable price for a growing quality business, and therefore is a process based on individual stock selection to generate superior returns. A 'typical' investment in the portfolio is a profitable, growing business with an easily understood business model that can be purchased at a price that will deliver, in the opinion of Ganes, a superior return over the medium to long term.

With an attractive investment opportunity identified, Ganes will allocate 1 to 2 percent of the fund's assets to an initial purchase, then over time build a larger stake in the business as comfort levels increase with the business and its management. Holdings will be added to, reduced, or sold entirely as changes in the underlying economics of the business, market pricing, or Ganes' assessed value of the company occurs.
